Queen's University Belfast Students' Union

Full-Time Student Officer Report

Role: Student Officer Equality and Diversity

Name: Sajid Khan

Period: November

Introduction: As Campaigns and Engagement Student Officer, my role is divided between assisting the development of Union campaign strategies and coordinating student development in Clubs and Societies, Volunteering, Enterprise and RAG. As all officers do, I represent and advocate for students in their academic life.

Activity	Description
UMB Consultative	The Officer team and I, presented to the University Committee	Management board about our new strategic plan for the next 5 years. We outlined our success with the previous 5 year strategic plan. I oversaw the Clubs and Societies sections of the presentation, demonstrating the breadth of work covered by the union and some of the challenges faced as we continue to grow. We made a strong case for an uplift in the SU subvention to match the ongoing work, and to support growth of the union in a financially sustainable way.
Swap Shop	With the Opening of the Swap Shop, the student officers and I, supported the first shifts to ensure that the intended model for shop operations was being communicated well to students.
	There was great interest in the concepts and anecdotally I can say that students are taking to the idea very well. We will continue to monitor and review the Swap Shop to see what is working and what isn't.
Clubs and	The committee heard proposals from multiple societies.
Societies	Committee members scrutinised the applications and asked Committee	relevant questions to the societies. Well done to all committee members for doing their job well and professionally, a credit to the union. All proposals we heard from have been Accommodation	recommended for approval by council.
Toilets consultation	I was consulted by accommodation on the expectation from international students for bidet or similar water based washing Tollets consultation	facilities in the toilets. It is common practice in the eastern world to wash in this way, and Residential life was interested in how this can be best accommodated given issues of jerry-rigging arising. There are certain legal restrictions on what can be done regarding water flow and plumbing to avoid cross contamination, and so a design that is built into the toilet seat was considered the most sensible option.

Battle of the BandsThe event was a great success, with applot. 400 people in attendance and £1.7k raised for RAG charties. All the bands said that it was the largest crowd they had performed in front off, which speaks well to our intended goal of platforming Queen's student bands in need of recognition. The winners, Running out the clock have been put in contact with the recording studio to collect their prize of studio time for mastering, mixing and recording of their music. Credit to all 5 bands involved, they all put on a great show, and I'm sure made many new fans that night. It is my view that this opens the door for further platforming of the arts within the SU and my hope that this is not the last Battle of the Bands hosted by the SU.NUS LiberationThe NUS UK team came over to visit our campus, it was great to link in with the team and discuss future plans and options for national lobbying strategy. During this trip they also had the first meeting of the Liberation Collective, a network of student social justice advocates across the UK. We had students from both Queen's and Ulster present to have the first meeting and give an indication of the direction we felt the collective should travel, as well as promoting the collective.Protest ResponseDuring the Global Innovation Summit, a number of activists from different groups protested the summit due to attendance of Hillary Clinton. These protesters were met with an excessive use of force from the PSNI, and their actions only served to escalate the situation. The right the SU will continue to protect. In the time since, we have issued a statement and have liaised with the Palestinian Assembly, University, and the solicitor for the charged students. The University has committed to investigating the incident, and we await the outcome of this investigation and will update ac	Battle of the Bands	The event was a great success, with approx. 400 people in said that it was the largest crowd they had performed in front off, which speaks well to our intended goal of platforming Queen's student bands in need of recognition. The winners, Running out the clock have been put in contact with the recording studio to collect their prize of studio time for mastering, mixing and recording of their music. Credit to all 5 bands involved, they all put on a great show, and I'm sure made many new fans that night. It is my view that this opens the door for further platforming of the arts within the SU and my hope that this is not the last Battle of the Bands hosted by the SU.NUS Liberation CollectiveThe NUS UK team came over to visit our campus, it was great to link in with the team and discuss future plans and options for national lobbying strategy. During this trip they also had the first meeting of the Liberation Collective, a network of student social justice advocates across the UK. We had students from both Queen's and Ulster present to have the first meeting and give an indication of the direction we feit the collective should travel, as well as promoting the collective.Protest ResponseDuring the Global Innovation Summit, a number of activists from different groups protested the summit due to attendance of Hillary Clinton. These protesters were met with an excessive use of force from the PSNI, and their actions only served to escalate the situation. The right to protest is a fundamental right in both society and on campus; it is a right the SU will continue to protect. In the time since, we have issued a statement and have liaised with the Palestinian Assembly, University, and the solicitor for the charged students. The University as committed to investigation and will update accordingly.Civic ActivismThe SU Voice team delivered the civic activism programme, which con off, which speaks well to our intended goal of platforming Queen's student bands in need of recognition. The winners, Running out the clock have been put in contact with the recording studio to collect their prize of studio time for mastering, mixing and recording of their music. Credit to all 5 bands involved, they all put on a great show, and I'm sure made many new fans that night. It is my view that this opens the door for further platforming of the arts within the SU and my hope that this is not the last Battle of the Bands hosted by the SU.NUS Liberation CollectiveThe NUS UK team came over to visit our campus, it was great to link in with the team and discuss future plans and options for national lobbying strategy. During this trip they also had the first meeting of the Liberation Collective, a network of student social justice advocates across the UK. We had students from both Queen's and Ulster present to have the first meeting and give an indication of the direction we felt the collective should travel, as well as promoting the collective.Protest ResponseDuring the Global Innovation Summit, a number of activists from different groups protested the summit due to attendance of Hillary Clinton. These protesters were met with an excessive use of force from the PSNI, and their actions only served to escalate the situation. The right to protest is a fundamental right in both society and on campus; it is a right the SU will continue to protect. In the time since, we have issued a statement and have liaised with the Palestinian Assembly, University has committed to investigating the incident, and we await the outcome of this investigation and will update accordingly.Civic ActivismThe SU Voice team delivered the civic activism programme, which consisted of 3 sessions covering the Theory of Change, Stakehold Queen's student bands in need of recognition. The winners, Running out the clock have been put in contact with the recording studio to collect their prize of studio time for mastering, mixing and recording of their music. Credit to all 5 bands involved, they all put on a great show, and I'm sure made many new fans that night. It is my view that this opens the door for further platforming of the arts within the SU and my hope that this is not the last Battle of the Bands hosted by the SU.NUS Liberation CollectiveThe NUS UK team came over to visit our campus, it was great to link in with the team and discuss future plans and options for national lobbying strategy. During this trip they also had the first meeting of the Liberation Collective, a network of student social justice advocates across the UK. We had students from both Queen's and Ulster present to have the first meeting and give an indication of the direction we felt the collective should travel, as well as promoting the collective.Protest ResponseDuring the Global Innovation Summit, a number of activists from different groups protested the summit due to attendance of Hillary Clinton. These protesters were met with an excessive use of force from the PSNI, and their actions only served to escalate the situation. The right to protest is a fundamental right in both society and on campus; it is a right the SU will continue to protect. In the time since, we have issued a statement and have liaised with the Palestinian Assembly, University has committed to investigating the incident, and we await the outcome of this investigation and will update accordingly.Civic ActivismThe SU Voice team delivered the civic activism programme, which consisted of 3 sessions covering the Theory of Change, Stakeholder influence and building momentum. The students who attend Running out the clock have been put in contact with the recording studio to collect their prize of studio time for mastering, mixing and recording of their music. Credit to all 5 bands involved, they all put on a great show, and I'm sure made many new fans that night. It is my view that this opens the door for further platforming of the arts within the SU and my hope that this is not the last Battle of the Bands hosted by the SU.NUS Liberation CollectiveThe NUS UK team came over to visit our campus, it was great to link in with the team and discuss future plans and options for national lobbying strategy. During this trip they also had the first meeting of the Liberation Collective, a network of student social justice advocates across the UK. We had students from both Queen's and Ulster present to have the first meeting and give an indication of the direction we fait the collective should travel, as well as promoting the collective.Protest ResponseDuring the Global Innovation Summit, a number of activists from different groups protested the summit due to attendance of Hillary Clinton. These protesters were met with an excessive use of force from the PSNI, and their actions only served to escalate the situation. The right to protest is a fundamental right in both society and on campus; it is a right the SU will continue to protect. In the time since, we have issued a statement and have liaised with the Palestinian Assembly, University has committed to investigation and will update accordingly.Civic ActivismThe SU voice team delivered the civic activism programme, which consisted of 3 sessions covering the Theory of Change, Stakeholder influence and building momentum. The students who attended all 3 and have evidenced work within their workbooks will have their hours logged towards the Future Ready Award. Cre recording studio to collect their prize of studio time for mastering, mixing and recording of their music. Credit to all 5 bands involved, they all put on a great show, and I'm sure made many new fans that night. It is my view that this opens the door for further platforming of the arts within the SU and my hope that this is not the last Battle of the Bands hosted by the SU.NUS Liberation CollectiveThe NUS UK team came over to visit our campus, it was great to link in with the team and discuss future plans and options for national lobbying strategy. During this trip they also had the first meeting of the Liberation Collective, a network of student social justice advocates across the UK. We had students from both Queen's and Ulster present to have the first meeting and give an indication of the direction we felt the collective should travel, as well as promoting the collective.Protest ResponseDuring the Global Innovation Summit, a number of activists from different groups protesters were met with an excessive use of force from the PSNI, and their actions only served to escalate the situation. The right to protest is a fundamental right in both society and on campus; it is a right the SU will continue to protect. In the time since, we have issued a statement and have liaised with the Palestinian Assembly, University, and the solicitor for the charged students. The University has committed to investigating the incident, and we await the outcome of this investigation and will update accordingly.Civic ActivismThe SU Voice team delivered the civic activism programme, which consisted of 3 sessions covering the Theory of Change, Stakeholder influence and building momentum. The students who attended all 3 and have evidenced work within their workbooks will have their hours logged towards the Future Ready Award. Cre		- mastering, mixing and recording of their music. Credit to all 5 bands involved, they all put on a great show, and I'm sure made many new fans that night. It is my view that this opens the door for further platforming of the arts within the SU and my hope that this is not the last Battle of the Bands hosted by the SU.NUS Liberation CollectiveThe NUS UK team came over to visit our campus, it was great to link in with the team and discuss future plans and options for national lobbying strategy. During this trip they also had the first meeting of the Liberation Collective, a network of student social justice advocates across the UK. We had students from both Queen's and Ulster present to have the first meeting and give an indication of the direction we felt the collective should travel, as well as promoting the collective.Protest ResponseDuring the Global Innovation Summit, a number of activists from different groups protested the summit due to attendance of Hillary Clinton. These protesters were met with an excessive use of force from the PSNI, and their actions only served to escalate the situation. The right to protest is a fundamental right in both society and on campus; it is a right the SU will continue to protect. In the time since, we have issued a statement and have liaised with the Palestinian Assembly, University, and the solicitor for the charged students. The University has committed to investigating the incident, and we await the outcome of this investigation and will update accordingly.Civic ActivismThe SU Voice team delivered the civic activism programme, which consisted of 3 sessions covering the Theory of Change, Stakeholder influence and building momentum. The students who attended all 3 and have evidenced work within their workbooks will have their hours logged towards the Future Ready Awar		Running out the clock have been put in contact with the bands involved, they all put on a great show, and I'm sure made many new fans that night. It is my view that this opens the door for further platforming of the arts within the SU and my hope that this is not the last Battle of the Bands hosted by the SU.NUS Liberation CollectiveThe NUS UK team came over to visit our campus, it was great to link in with the team and discuss future plans and options for national lobbying strategy. During this trip they also had the first meeting of the Liberation Collective, a network of student social justice advocates across the UK. We had students from both Queen's and Ulster present to have the first meeting and give an indication of the direction we felt the collective should travel, as well as promoting the collective.Protest ResponseDuring the Global Innovation Summit, a number of activists from different groups protested the summit due to attendance of Hillary Clinton. These protesters were met with an excessive use of force from the PSNI, and their actions only served to escalate the situation. The right to protest is a fundamental right in both society and on campus; it is a right the SU will continue to protect. In the time since, we have issued a statement and have liaised with the Palestinian Assembly, University has committed to investigating the incident, and we await the outcome of this investigation and will update accordingly.Civic ActivismThe SU Voice team delivered the civic activism programme, which consisted of 3 sessions covering the Theory of Change, Stakeholder influence and building momentum. The students who attended all 3 and have evidenced work within their workbooks will have their hours logged towards the Future Ready Award. Credit to Emma Gorey for development and delivery of the programme. The hope is for this to become a resource that contin		recording studio to collect their prize of studio time for many new fans that night. It is my view that this opens the door for further platforming of the arts within the SU and my hope that this is not the last Battle of the Bands hosted by the SU.NUS Liberation CollectiveThe NUS UK team came over to visit our campus, it was great to link in with the team and discuss future plans and options for national lobbying strategy. During this trip they also had the first meeting of the Liberation Collective, a network of student social justice advocates across the UK. We had students from both Queen's and Ulster present to have the first meeting and give an indication of the direction we felt the collective should travel, as well as promoting the collective.Protest ResponseDuring the Global Innovation Summit, a number of activists from different groups protested the summit due to attendance of Hillary Clinton. These protesters were met with an excessive use of force from the PSNI, and their actions only served to escalate the situation. The right to protest is a fundamental right in both society and on campus; it is a right the SU will continue to protect. In the time since, we have issued a statement and have liaised with the Palestinian Assembly, University, and the solicitor for the charged students. The University has committed to investigating the incident, and we await the outcome of this investigation and will update accordingly.Civic ActivismThe SU Voice team delivered the civic activism programme, which consisted of 3 sessions covering the Theory of Change, Stakeholder influence and building momentum. The students who attended all 3 and have evidenced work within their workbooks will have their hours logged towards the Future Ready Award. Credit to Emma Gorey for development and delivery of the programme. The hope is for this to become a resource that continues		mastering, mixing and recording of their music. Credit to all 5 for further platforming of the arts within the SU and my hope that this is not the last Battle of the Bands hosted by the SU.NUS Liberation CollectiveThe NUS UK team came over to visit our campus, it was great to link in with the team and discuss future plans and options for national lobbying strategy. During this trip they also had the first meeting of the Liberation Collective, a network of student social justice advocates across the UK. We had students from both Queen's and Ulster present to have the first meeting and give an indication of the direction we felt the collective should travel, as well as promoting the collective.Protest ResponseDuring the Global Innovation Summit, a number of activists from different groups protested the summit due to attendance of Hillary Clinton. These protesters were met with an excessive use of force from the PSNI, and their actions only served to escalate the situation. The right to protest is a fundamental right in both society and on campus; it is a right the SU will continue to protect. In the time since, we have issued a statement and have liaised with the Palestinian Assembly, University has committed to investigating the incident, and we await the outcome of this investigation and will update accordingly.Civic Activism ProgrammeThe SU Voice team delivered the civic activism programme, which consisted of 3 sessions covering the Theory of Change, Stakeholder influence and building momentum. The students who attended all 3 and have evidenced work within their workbooks will have their hours logged towards the Future Ready Award. Credit to Emma Gorey for development and delivery of the programme. The hope is for this to become a resource that continues to be developed in the coming years		bands involved, they all put on a great show, and I'm sure made for further platforming of the arts within the SU and my hope that this is not the last Battle of the Bands hosted by the SU.NUS Liberation CollectiveThe NUS UK team came over to visit our campus, it was great to link in with the team and discuss future plans and options for national lobbying strategy. During this trip they also had the first meeting of the Liberation Collective, a network of student social justice advocates across the UK. We had students from both Queen's and Ulster present to have the first meeting and give an indication of the direction we felt the collective should travel, as well as promoting the collective.Protest ResponseDuring the Global Innovation Summit, a number of activists from different groups protested the summit due to attendance of Hillary Clinton. These protesters were met with an excessive use of force from the PSNI, and their actions only served to escalate the situation. The right to protest is a fundamental right in both society and on campus; it is a right the SU will continue to protect. In the time since, we have issued a statement and have liaised with the Palestinian Assembly, University has committed to investigating the incident, and we await the outcome of this investigation and will update accordingly.Civic ActivismThe SU Voice team delivered the civic activism programme, which consisted of 3 sessions covering the Theory of Change, Stakeholder influence and building momentum. The students who attended all 3 and have evidenced work within their workbooks will have their hours logged towards the Future Ready Award. Credit to Emma Gorey for development and delivery of the programme. The hope is for this to become a resource that continues to be developed in the coming years		many new fans that night. It is my view that this opens the door that this is not the last Battle of the Bands hosted by the SU.NUS Liberation CollectiveThe NUS UK team came over to visit our campus, it was great to link in with the team and discuss future plans and options for national lobbying strategy. During this trip they also had the first meeting of the Liberation Collective, a network of student social justice advocates across the UK. We had students from both Queen's and Ulster present to have the first meeting and give an indication of the direction we felt the collective should travel, as well as promoting the collective.Protest ResponseDuring the Global Innovation Summit, a number of activists from different groups protested the summit due to attendance of Hillary Clinton. These protesters were met with an excessive use of force from the PSNI, and their actions only served to escalate the situation. The right to protest is a fundamental right in both society and on campus; it is a right the SU will continue to protect. In the time since, we have issued a statement and have liaised with the Palestinian Assembly, University has committed to investigating the incident, and we await the outcome of this investigation and will update accordingly.Civic ActivismThe SU Voice team delivered the civic activism programme, which consisted of 3 sessions covering the Theory of Change, Stakeholder influence and building momentum. The students who attended all 3 and have evidenced work within their workbooks will have their hours logged towards the Future Ready Award. Credit to Emma Gorey for development and delivery of the programme. The hope is for this to become a resource that continues to be developed in the coming years		for further platforming of the arts within the SU and my hope NUS Liberation CollectiveThe NUS UK team came over to visit our campus, it was great to link in with the team and discuss future plans and options for national lobbying strategy. During this trip they also had the first meeting of the Liberation Collective, a network of student social justice advocates across the UK. We had students from both Queen's and Ulster present to have the first meeting and give an indication of the direction we felt the collective should travel, as well as promoting the collective.Protest ResponseDuring the Global Innovation Summit, a number of activists from different groups protested the summit due to attendance of Hillary Clinton. These protesters were met with an excessive use of force from the PSNI, and their actions only served to escalate the situation. The right to protest is a fundamental right in both society and on campus; it is a right the SU will continue to protect. In the time since, we have issued a statement and have liaised with the Palestinian Assembly, University, has committed to investigating the incident, and we await the outcome of this investigation and will update accordingly.Civic ActivismThe SU Voice team delivered the civic activism programme, which consisted of 3 sessions covering the Theory of Change, Stakeholder influence and building momentum. The students who attended all 3 and have evidenced work within their workbooks will have their hours logged towards the Future Ready Award. Credit to Emma Gorey for development and delivery of the programme. The hope is for this to become a resource that continues to be developed in the coming years Collectivelink in with the team and discuss future plans and options for national lobbying strategy. During this trip they also had the first meeting of the Liberation Collective, a network of student social justice advocates across the UK. We had students from both Queen's and Ulster present to have the first meeting and give an indication of the direction we felt the collective should travel, as well as promoting the collective.Protest ResponseDuring the Global Innovation Summit, a number of activists from different groups protested the summit due to attendance of Hillary Clinton. These protesters were met with an excessive use of force from the PSNI, and their actions only served to escalate the situation. The right to protest is a fundamental right in both society and on campus; it is a right the SU will continue to protect. In the time since, we have issued a statement and have liaised with the Palestinian Assembly, University, and the solicitor for the charged students. The University has committed to investigating the incident, and we await the outcome of this investigation and will update accordingly.Civic ActivismThe SU Voice team delivered the civic activism programme, which consisted of 3 sessions covering the Theory of Change, Stakeholder influence and building momentum. The students who attended all 3 and have evidenced work within their workbooks will have their hours logged towards the Future Ready Award. Credit to Emma Gorey for development and delivery of the programme. The hope is for this to become a resource that continues to be developed in the coming years	NUSLiberation national lobbying strategy. During this trip they also had the first meeting of the Liberation Collective, a network of student social justice advocates across the UK. We had students from both Queen's and Ulster present to have the first meeting and give an indication of the direction we felt the collective should travel, as well as promoting the collective.Protest ResponseDuring the Global Innovation Summit, a number of activists from different groups protested the summit due to attendance of Hillary Clinton. These protesters were met with an excessive use of force from the PSNI, and their actions only served to escalate the situation. The right to protest is a fundamental right in both society and on campus; it is a right the SU will continue to protect. In the time since, we have issued a statement and have liaised with the Palestinian Assembly, University, and the solicitor for the charged students. The University has committed to investigating the incident, and we await the outcome of this investigation and will update accordingly.Civic ActivismThe SU Voice team delivered the civic activism programme, which consisted of 3 sessions covering the Theory of Change, Stakeholder influence and building momentum. The students who attended all 3 and have evidenced work within their workbooks will have their hours logged towards the Future Ready Award. Credit to Emma Gorey for development and delivery of the programme. The hope is for this to become a resource that continues to be developed in the coming years meeting of the Liberation Collective, a network of student social justice advocates across the UK. We had students from both Queen's and Ulster present to have the first meeting and give an indication of the direction we felt the collective should travel, as well as promoting the collective.Protest ResponseDuring the Global Innovation Summit, a number of activists from different groups protested the summit due to attendance of Hillary Clinton. These protesters were met with an excessive use of force from the PSNI, and their actions only served to escalate the situation. The right to protest is a fundamental right in both society and on campus; it is a right the SU will continue to protect. In the time since, we have issued a statement and have liaised with the Palestinian Assembly, University, and the solicitor for the charged students. The University has committed to investigating the incident, and we await the outcome of this investigation and will update accordingly.Civic ActivismThe SU Voice team delivered the civic activism programme, which consisted of 3 sessions covering the Theory of Change, Stakeholder influence and building momentum. The students who attended all 3 and have evidenced work within their workbooks will have their hours logged towards the Future Ready Award. Credit to Emma Gorey for development and delivery of the programme. The hope is for this to become a resource that continues to be developed in the coming years	Collective social justice advocates across the UK. We had students from both Queen's and Ulster present to have the first meeting and give an indication of the direction we felt the collective should travel, as well as promoting the collective.Protest ResponseDuring the Global Innovation Summit, a number of activists from different groups protested the summit due to attendance of Hillary Clinton. These protesters were met with an excessive use of force from the PSNI, and their actions only served to escalate the situation. The right to protest is a fundamental right in both society and on campus; it is a right the SU will continue to protect. In the time since, we have issued a statement and have liaised with the Palestinian Assembly, University, and the solicitor for the charged students. The University has committed to investigating the incident, and we await the outcome of this investigation and will update accordingly.Civic Activism ProgrammeThe SU Voice team delivered the civic activism programme, which consisted of 3 sessions covering the Theory of Change, Stakeholder influence and building momentum. The students who attended all 3 and have evidenced work within their workbooks will have their hours logged towards the Future Ready Award. Credit to Emma Gorey for development and delivery of the programme. The hope is for this to become a resource that continues to be developed in the coming years both Queen's and Ulster present to have the first meeting and give an indication of the direction we felt the collective should travel, as well as promoting the collective.Protest ResponseDuring the Global Innovation Summit, a number of activists from different groups protested the summit due to attendance of Hillary Clinton. These protesters were met with an excessive use of force from the PSNI, and their actions only served to escalate the situation. The right to protest is a fundamental right in both society and on campus; it is a right the SU will continue to protect. In the time since, we have issued a statement and have liaised with the Palestinian Assembly, University, and the solicitor for the charged students. The University has committed to investigating the incident, and we await the outcome of this investigation and will update accordingly.Civic Activism ProgrammeThe SU Voice team delivered the civic activism programme, which consisted of 3 sessions covering the Theory of Change, Stakeholder influence and building momentum. The students who attended all 3 and have evidenced work within their workbooks will have their hours logged towards the Future Ready Award. Credit to Emma Gorey for development and delivery of the programme. The hope is for this to become a resource that continues to be developed in the coming years give an indication of the direction we felt the collective should travel, as well as promoting the collective.Protest ResponseDuring the Global Innovation Summit, a number of activists from different groups protested the summit due to attendance of Hillary Clinton. These protesters were met with an excessive use of force from the PSNI, and their actions only served to escalate the situation. The right to protest is a fundamental right in both society and on campus; it is a right the SU will continue to protect. In the time since, we have issued a statement and have liaised with the Palestinian Assembly, University, and the solicitor for the charged students. The University has committed to investigating the incident, and we await the outcome of this investigation and will update accordingly.Civic ActivismThe SU Voice team delivered the civic activism programme, which consisted of 3 sessions covering the Theory of Change, Stakeholder influence and building momentum. The students who attended all 3 and have evidenced work within their workbooks will have their hours logged towards the Future Ready Award. Credit to Emma Gorey for development and delivery of the programme. The hope is for this to become a resource that continues to be developed in the coming years		-
Travel, as well as promoting the collective.Protest ResponseDuring the Global Innovation Summit, a number of activists from different groups protested the summit due to attendance of Hillary Clinton. These protesters were met with an excessive use of force from the PSNI, and their actions only served to escalate the situation. The right to protest is a fundamental right in both society and on campus; it is a right the SU will continue to protect. In the time since, we have issued a statement and have liaised with the Palestinian Assembly, University, and the solicitor for the charged students. The University has committed to investigating the incident, and we await the outcome of this investigation and will update accordingly.Civic ActivismThe SU Voice team delivered the civic activism programme, which consisted of 3 sessions covering the Theory of Change, Stakeholder influence and building momentum. The students who attended all 3 and have evidenced work within their workbooks will have their hours logged towards the Future Ready Award. Credit to Emma Gorey for development and delivery of the programme. The hope is for this to become a resource that continues to be developed in the coming years		· · · ·
Protest ResponseDuring the Global Innovation Summit, a number of activists from different groups protested the summit due to attendance of Hillary Clinton. These protesters were met with an excessive use of force from the PSNI, and their actions only served to escalate the situation. The right to protest is a fundamental right in both society and on campus; it is a right the SU will continue to protect. In the time since, we have issued a statement and have liaised with the Palestinian Assembly, University, and the solicitor for the charged students. The University has committed to investigating the incident, and we await the outcome of this investigation and will update accordingly.Civic ActivismThe SU Voice team delivered the civic activism programme, which consisted of 3 sessions covering the Theory of Change, Stakeholder influence and building momentum. The students who attended all 3 and have evidenced work within their workbooks will have their hours logged towards the Future Ready Award. Credit to Emma Gorey for development and delivery of the programme. The hope is for this to become a resource that continues to be developed in the coming years		• from different groups protested the summit due to attendance of Hillary Clinton. These protesters were met with an excessive use of force from the PSNI, and their actions only served to escalate the situation. The right to protest is a fundamental right in both society and on campus; it is a right the SU will continue to protect. In the time since, we have issued a statement and have liaised with the Palestinian Assembly, University, and the solicitor for the charged students. The University has committed to investigating the incident, and we await the outcome of this investigation and will update accordingly.Civic ActivismThe SU Voice team delivered the civic activism programme, which consisted of 3 sessions covering the Theory of Change, Stakeholder influence and building momentum. The students who attended all 3 and have evidenced work within their workbooks will have their hours logged towards the Future Ready Award. Credit to Emma Gorey for development and delivery of the programme. The hope is for this to become a resource that continues to be developed in the coming years of Hillary Clinton. These protesters were met with an excessive use of force from the PSNI, and their actions only served to escalate the situation. The right to protest is a fundamental right in both society and on campus; it is a right the SU will continue to protect. In the time since, we have issued a statement and have liaised with the Palestinian Assembly, University, and the solicitor for the charged students. The University has committed to investigating the incident, and we await the outcome of this investigation and will update accordingly.Civic ActivismThe SU Voice team delivered the civic activism programme, which consisted of 3 sessions covering the Theory of Change, Stakeholder influence and building momentum. The students who attended all 3 and have evidenced work within their workbooks will have their hours logged towards the Future Ready Award. Credit to Emma Gorey for development and delivery of the programme. The hope is for this to become a resource that continues to be developed in the coming years	Protest Response	- use of force from the PSNI, and their actions only served to escalate the situation. The right to protest is a fundamental right in both society and on campus; it is a right the SU will continue to protect. In the time since, we have issued a statement and have liaised with the Palestinian Assembly, University, and the solicitor for the charged students. The University has committed to investigating the incident, and we await the outcome of this investigation and will update accordingly. Civic Activism Programme The SU Voice team delivered the civic activism programme, which consisted of 3 sessions covering the Theory of Change, Stakeholder influence and building momentum. The students who attended all 3 and have evidenced work within their workbooks will have their hours logged towards the Future Ready Award. Credit to Emma Gorey for development and delivery of the programme. The hope is for this to become a resource that continues to be developed in the coming years 		from different groups protested the summit due to attendance escalate the situation. The right to protest is a fundamental right in both society and on campus; it is a right the SU will continue to protect. In the time since, we have issued a statement and have liaised with the Palestinian Assembly, University, and the solicitor for the charged students. The University has committed to investigating the incident, and we await the outcome of this investigation and will update accordingly. Civic Activism The SU Voice team delivered the civic activism programme, which consisted of 3 sessions covering the Theory of Change, Stakeholder influence and building momentum. The students who attended all 3 and have evidenced work within their workbooks will have their hours logged towards the Future Ready Award. Credit to Emma Gorey for development and delivery of the programme. The hope is for this to become a resource that continues to be developed in the coming years 		of Hillary Clinton. These protesters were met with an excessive right in both society and on campus; it is a right the SU will continue to protect. In the time since, we have issued a statement and have liaised with the Palestinian Assembly, University, and the solicitor for the charged students. The University has committed to investigating the incident, and we await the outcome of this investigation and will update accordingly.Civic ActivismThe SU Voice team delivered the civic activism programme, which consisted of 3 sessions covering the Theory of Change, Stakeholder influence and building momentum. The students who attended all 3 and have evidenced work within their workbooks will have their hours logged towards the Future Ready Award. Credit to Emma Gorey for development and delivery of the programme. The hope is for this to become a resource that continues to be developed in the coming years		use of force from the PSNI, and their actions only served to continue to protect. In the time since, we have issued a statement and have liaised with the Palestinian Assembly, University, and the solicitor for the charged students. The University has committed to investigating the incident, and we await the outcome of this investigation and will update accordingly.Civic ActivismThe SU Voice team delivered the civic activism programme, which consisted of 3 sessions covering the Theory of Change, Stakeholder influence and building momentum. The students who attended all 3 and have evidenced work within their workbooks will have their hours logged towards the Future Ready Award. Credit to Emma Gorey for development and delivery of the programme. The hope is for this to become a resource that continues to be developed in the coming years		escalate the situation. The right to protest is a fundamental statement and have liaised with the Palestinian Assembly, University, and the solicitor for the charged students. The University has committed to investigating the incident, and we await the outcome of this investigation and will update accordingly.Civic ActivismThe SU Voice team delivered the civic activism programme, which consisted of 3 sessions covering the Theory of Change, Stakeholder influence and building momentum. The students who attended all 3 and have evidenced work within their workbooks will have their hours logged towards the Future Ready Award. Credit to Emma Gorey for development and delivery of the programme. The hope is for this to become a resource that continues to be developed in the coming years		right in both society and on campus; it is a right the SU will
statement and have liaised with the Palestinian Assembly, University, and the solicitor for the charged students. The University has committed to investigating the incident, and we await the outcome of this investigation and will update accordingly.Civic ActivismThe SU Voice team delivered the civic activism programme, which consisted of 3 sessions covering the Theory of Change, Stakeholder influence and building momentum. The students who attended all 3 and have evidenced work within their workbooks will have their hours logged towards the Future Ready Award. Credit to Emma Gorey for development and delivery of the programme. The hope is for this to become a resource that continues to be developed in the coming years		continue to protect. In the time since, we have issued a
University, and the solicitor for the charged students. The University has committed to investigating the incident, and we await the outcome of this investigation and will update accordingly.Civic Activism ProgrammeThe SU Voice team delivered the civic activism programme, which consisted of 3 sessions covering the Theory of Change, Stakeholder influence and building momentum. The students who attended all 3 and have evidenced work within their workbooks will have their hours logged towards the Future Ready Award. Credit to Emma Gorey for development and delivery of the programme. The hope is for this to become a resource that continues to be developed in the coming years		statement and have liaised with the Palestinian Assembly, University has committed to investigating the incident, and we await the outcome of this investigation and will update accordingly.Civic ActivismThe SU Voice team delivered the civic activism programme, which consisted of 3 sessions covering the Theory of Change, Stakeholder influence and building momentum. The students who attended all 3 and have evidenced work within their workbooks will have their hours logged towards the Future Ready Award. Credit to Emma Gorey for development and delivery of the programme. The hope is for this to become a resource that continues to be developed in the coming years		University, and the solicitor for the charged students. The await the outcome of this investigation and will update accordingly.Civic Activism ProgrammeThe SU Voice team delivered the civic activism programme, which consisted of 3 sessions covering the Theory of Change, Stakeholder influence and building momentum. The students who attended all 3 and have evidenced work within their workbooks will have their hours logged towards the Future Ready Award. Credit to Emma Gorey for development and delivery of the programme. The hope is for this to become a resource that continues to be developed in the coming years accordingly.Civic ActivismThe SU Voice team delivered the civic activism programme, which consisted of 3 sessions covering the Theory of Change, Stakeholder influence and building momentum. The students who attended all 3 and have evidenced work within their workbooks will have their hours logged towards the Future Ready Award. Credit to Emma Gorey for development and delivery of the programme. The hope is for this to become a resource that continues to be developed in the coming years Civic Activism Programme The SU Voice team delivered the civic activism programme, which consisted of 3 sessions covering the Theory of Change, Stakeholder influence and building momentum. The students who attended all 3 and have evidenced work within their workbooks will have their hours logged towards the Future Ready Award. Credit to Emma Gorey for development and delivery of the programme. The hope is for this to become a resource that continues to be developed in the coming years Programme which consisted of 3 sessions covering the Theory of Change, Stakeholder influence and building momentum. The students who attended all 3 and have evidenced work within their workbooks will have their hours logged towards the Future Ready Award. Credit to Emma Gorey for development and delivery of the programme. The hope is for this to become a resource that continues to be developed in the coming years	Civic Activism Stakeholder influence and building momentum. The students who attended all 3 and have evidenced work within their workbooks will have their hours logged towards the Future Ready Award. Credit to Emma Gorey for development and delivery of the programme. The hope is for this to become a resource that continues to be developed in the coming years who attended all 3 and have evidenced work within their workbooks will have their hours logged towards the Future Ready Award. Credit to Emma Gorey for development and delivery of the programme. The hope is for this to become a resource that continues to be developed in the coming years	1 logialitilo workbooks will have their hours logged towards the Future Ready Award. Credit to Emma Gorey for development and delivery of the programme. The hope is for this to become a resource that continues to be developed in the coming years		- Ready Award. Credit to Emma Gorey for development and delivery of the programme. The hope is for this to become a resource that continues to be developed in the coming years delivery of the programme. The hope is for this to become a resource that continues to be developed in the coming years resource that continues to be developed in the coming years and is a course we continue to deliver in the same vein as Rep training.
Digitisation of This is a continuation of work from months previous on the	-	· Academic Appeals process to creating a digital portal for students to submit	Academic Appeals	process to creating a digital portal for students to submit academic appeals. The new system is I believe, better than the		academic appeals. The new system is I believe, better than the old analogue forms, and should be simpler for both staff and		old analogue forms, and should be simpler for both staff and students to track queries and make student appeals stronger.		students to track queries and make student appeals stronger.

We have pushed for inclusion of SU advice within the system.
There are challenges to this, as there is a need for independence in regard to what data is collected and the GDPR of the student has to be considered. A suitable compromise has been found in which the student will be able to download their appeal before submission in order to share with SU advice and will be able to mark consent for SU advice to receive notification of an outcome (though without any details on the decision itself). This compromise maintains data independence and upholds the principle of revocable consent for the student. With this addition it should aid in closing the feedback loop for SU advice.